Deep Listening® Intensive & Concert

Pauline Oliveros

JUNE 8-10

Course 1902-992

Pauline Oliveros is one of the foremost composers of the 20th and 21st centuries and a pioneer of electronic music alongside forerunners like Morton Subotnick, Terry Riley, and Ramon Sender.

In addition to performing, teaching, and composing, Oliveros developed the concept of Deep Listening®, an experience of enhanced awareness of sound, silence, and sounding informed by expanding the range of audible forms beyond ordinary sound perceptions in daily life.

This workshop explores the history, theory, and practice of Deep Listening®. Practices include energy exercises, listening exercises, movement exercises, meditation sessions, and musical improvisation with opportunities to work alone, in pairs, and in small and large groups, with and without musical instruments.

We also join together for an 80th birthday celebration concert for Pauline Oliveros on Saturday evening and conclude our time together with a musical finale of presentations.

This innovative experience provides a framework for artistic collaboration and musical improvisation, and provides new tools to explore and interact with environmental and instrumental sounds. Musicians and others interested in exploring ways to enhance their creativity through Deep Listening® are invited.

A letter with a list of recommended reading and things to bring will be sent upon registration.

Pauline Oliveros has influenced American music in a career spanning more than 60 years as a composer, performer, author, and philosopher.
